

OUT in FRONT: Landscape Leading

Call for Entries: December 2019

UW PAC Landscape Architecture Professional Design Exhibition

February 3-14

Gould Hall Court - University of Washington

Opening Reception: Tuesday February 4

Reception RSVP: LarchPAC@uw.edu

Exhibit Information

The Landscape Architecture Professional Advisory Council and the University of Washington Department of Landscape Architecture are sponsoring an exhibit of emerging landscape architectural projects by northwest practitioners. OUT/in/FRONT: Landscape Leading is open to all projects, interventions, or proposals in which the work of landscape architects plays a prime role (contractual or not) in shaping the built environment. This exhibit is an annual fall event to inspire students and professionals and illustrate the breadth of work taking place in the profession.

Professional Advisory Council

The Department of Landscape Architecture Professional Advisory Council (PAC) is a volunteer group of practicing landscape architects, formed to support the Department's teaching, outreach and fundraising efforts. The PAC participates in various departmental events, serves as a sounding board for the Chair, and provides valuable input to the Department on professional issues, trends and opportunities as they relate to the teaching of landscape architecture. In doing so, it connects the Department with the professional community, grounds the program in actual practice, and expands the capacity of the Department at a time when University resources are limited.
